Good news: Matt Wieters hit his first HR, Jeremy Guthrie looked good before leaving for the WBC, and Koji Uehara threw two scoreless innings in his debut. Bad news: Most of the other rotation candidates failed to shine — Brad Hennessey and Rich Hill are hurt, and Danys Baez, Mark Hendrickson, and David Pauley turned in poor outings. On most clubs, the addition of Adam Eaton would not register a blip, but on BAL he will get a serious shot at the rotation.

Takashi Saito's return from arm troubles has been so positive that the Sox brass are hopeful that he can open the season as Papelbon's top RH set-up man, in tandem with LHP Hideki Okajima. In fact, in Sunday's Worcester Telegram & Gazette, Boston pitching coach John Farrell indicated Saito would be the first alternative to Papelbon at closer. So far, J.D. Drew's back has been a non-issue.
